FOUR PADLOCK WARNINGS ARE SERVED IN CITY

Local Business Places Notified by Federal Dry Officers

FIRST ISSUED HERE

Proprietors Given 20 Days To Put Up Defense Against Closing

Padlocking proceedings, the result of a series of liquor raids made two months ago by federal prohibition agents from Toledo, were started against four business places here today.

The places facing padlocking are the Ackerman hotel, Harry Heminger's second-hand store, Rocco Sansotta's bar and malt store and Dave West's pool room. The malt store and the pool room are located on the West side. Heminger's second-hand store is on North Main st. and the Ackerman is on North State st.

Notices of the padlocking proceedings were served this morning by Deputy United States Marshal Ellick from the district federal court at Toledo. Proprietors of the places were given 20 days in which to show cause why government padlocks should not be slipped through the door latches.

In the raids made here some time ago by the federal men 10 persons were arrested on liquor charges. The arrests were made in the places now facing padlocking.

Three Sentenced
Harry Heminger, second-hand store proprietor, his assistant, William Carlin, and Dave West are now serving sentences in the Dayton workhouse as a result of the raids, Sheriff DeWitt stated today.

If these places are padlocked it will be the first time a Marion business place has been locked with federal authorities holding the keys.

SIX LOSE LIVES AS HOME IS DESTROYED

Pall of Tragedy Overhangs Alabama Village on Christmas Eve

LINCOLN, Ala., Dec. 24.—Christmas eve dawned with a pall of tragedy overhanging this little village, where yesterday six persons were burned to death when fire destroyed the home of Albert Calhoun.

The dead, Mrs. Albert Calhoun; Fula Calhoun, 11; Emmett, 9; Freeman, 4; Robert V., 2; and Albert, Jr., an infant. Calhoun and two of his daughters, Essie, 10, and Ella, 12, probably will die as a result of their burns, physicians said.

The origin of the fire was not determined.

Today

CHRISTMAS tomorrow, and a week later the first day of 1929. What sort of year will it be for the world, this country and for the individual?

Like a man half-heartedly swearing off in the morning, the world is trying to give up war. And this country, which never started a war against Europe, is expected to do most of the reforming. It's like asking Moody and Sankey to sign the pledge first, or entreating the Rev. Dr. Stratton not to believe in Darwin.

The individual must solve his own problems, with the use of will power. "The heart knoweth his own bitterness."

Each of us knows what is wrong with him and what he ought to do. Few of us do it. Nations know what they ought to do. None of them do it. Europe ought to stop fighting and can't. We ought to wind our own business and can't.

FOR American prosperity the outlook is good. Prosperity demands action and the spending of money—lots of money. This prosperity is based on the pouring out of a hundred billions in the war.

Herbert Hoover is coming in. He will get action and will spend money wisely. Business will boom.

The pessimists and the Jews have days of sorrow ahead.

Great are the values that go to waste. When Spaniards brought bricks of silver down from the ancient Cerro de Pasco mine on Lamas they tossed aside the copper taken out. It was not worth transportation. It's worth millions now.

In sugar mills the problem was to get rid of the "bagasse"—ground-up cane—from which sugar had been taken. Now excellent building material is made of that waste stuff and Hawaii is starting to make paper of it.

The greatest of all waste goes on inside the human brain, of which 999 one-thousandths remain idle and unused even in well-managed brains. Millions of brains do not work at all—only remember and repeat, never create.

Santa Must Use Plane No "White Christmas"

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24.—Old Santa's historic reindeers and sleigh will remain in the barn when he starts his sweep across Ohio late tonight.

The government weather bureau gave positive assurance today that the kind old gentleman, who will bring Christmas cheer to the hearts of thousands of children tonight, will have to load his gifts into an automobile or an airplane.

Generally fair weather prevailed over most of the state and the official forecast was for continued fair weather and little change in temperature, definitely extinguishing the hopes of those who wished for a "white" Christmas.

MYSTERY MAN IN CUSTODY OF SHERIFF DEAL

Radio Used in Effort To Establish Identity of Amnesia Victim

Indications were today that efforts being made by Sheriff James A. Deal to remove the blind of darkness from the memory of a 35-year old man, now lodged in county jail, in time to reunite him with his family for Christmas would prove fruitless.

Since last Saturday afternoon the sheriff has held a man, a victim of amnesia. What promised to be a good lead toward identifying the stranger proved fruitless today when run down by the sheriff.

After 48 hours the identity of the man is as much a mystery as ever. The "mystery man" remembers nothing on which the sheriff can base an investigation. At present only one more clue remains on which the sheriff can work.

A description of the man, broadcast Saturday night from station WLV, Cincinnati, at the request of the sheriff, brought two responses. One proved fruitless. The other may be good.

Phones to Warsaw, Ind.
The clue ran down by the sheriff today came from Warsaw, Ind. A telephone conversation with W. V. Lowman, of that city, revealed that Lowman's father-in-law had been missing from his home there for about six weeks. The man, Lowman said, had been in an accident about three months ago.

For a time these facts led Sheriff Deal to believe that the man held here was the one missing from Warsaw. From the shattered memory of the man the sheriff gathered, piece by piece, the story of an accident some time ago. This seemed to be the incident most firmly fixed in the mind of the mysterious stranger. He also thought that he had been robbed.

This clue held up today, however, when the sheriff's investigation revealed that the man missing from Warsaw was at the home of his daughter at Philo, O.

One Other Lead Remains
It came from relatives of a missing man from Pittsburg, Kan., who communicated with Sheriff Deal by telephone after

1929 Starts Soon Bears, Beware Wasted Values Millions Dis; What of It?

BY ARTHUR BRIDGEMAN

But that will change. Consider what ants and other insects accomplish, having been here many million years ahead of us. We are only 12,000 years from the late stone age, which is the most engaging fact in history. Give each ten to fifty million more years, with deepening convolutions and inherited knowledge, and see what they will do.

A mud wasp, as Fabre shows, is born knowing how to perform a most difficult surgical operation, difficult for a skilled man. Newborn human babies 5,000,000 years hence will know more of mathematics than Newton knew when he died, more of music than Beethoven and Bach combined.

It is predicted that 2,000,000 will die in Kansas this winter, and about half the population. Famine and cold will kill the greater number. Mohammedan fanatics, consuming their massacres for the glory of Allah, will kill the others.

Kansu is 1,000 miles north of Shanghai, and when asked why so little is done for the miserable people of Kansu Shanghai answers, "They are so far away."

No wonder they seem far away to us! What we do not actually see disturbs us little. Famine in China, very mild sympathy; earthquake destroying all life on the planet Mars, no sympathy at all, only scientific curiosity.

UNCLE SAM, convinced that his officials are not honest or able enough to succeed in business, is getting out of shipping as fast as he can.

That suits the British. They do not like competition with the government and its long purse. But they are not at all afraid of our private shipping men; of them their opinion is small.

Our ship owners had built up a good tourist trade with Cuba, based partly on America's prohibition thirst.

The Cunard Line decides to cut that trade and put fine, fine steamers on a New York-Cuba winter run. The American War Line cuts the 25 per cent. in revenue. But the British can run boats more cheaply

MEANEST THIEF

Takes Christmas Gifts from Marion Automobile

THE world's meanest man has been discovered in Marion. Mrs. Fred Throckmorton, 371 leader st., reported to police Saturday night that her automobile, parked on the Central Junior High grounds, had been broken into and her Christmas purchases stolen.

Mrs. Throckmorton listed among her losses four boxes of handkerchiefs, seven pair of socks, one doll baby, small set of dishes, for train, five small toy trucks, two larger trucks and one pair of silk hose.

BLAME LIQUOR FOR ACCIDENTS

Five Autoists in Court, One in Hospital After Crashes Here

As a result of three automobile accidents Sunday, caused, it is alleged, by drivers "blinded" too freely by "Christmas cheer," five men found themselves in court today and one in the city hospital.

T. A. Kohler, 679 Marshall st., shoe salesman, was arrested Sunday afternoon after the Police touring car, he was driving, crashed into a Chevrolet sedan parked on Center street.

Witnesses claim that Kohler was driving west on the south side of the street when the accident occurred. Police, who arrived immediately upon the scene, were compelled to chase Kohler down the street. A pint bottle, containing a small amount of alleged liquor was found in the car, the officers report.

Clyde Hefert, who was a passenger in the Kohler car, was lacerated about the face and was removed to City hospital in a Hesse, Market & Ave ambulance, where it was found that his wounds were not serious.

License Suspended
Kohler was fined $100 and cost in Municipal court Monday by Judge Martin and in addition lost his driving license revoked for six months and was sentenced to the county jail for 60 days when he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and possessing liquor. The sentence was suspended providing Kohler paid for all damages in the accident.

Alvin Munk, 221 West Town st., Columbus, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was committed to the county jail in default of $300 bond. Hearing of the case was set for Dec. 27.

Munk was arrested Sunday along with Jim and William Harris, 928 Kenton av., after the car in which

JUDGES ALLEN, DAY TAKE OFFICE OATH

Reelected Members, of Supreme Court Bench To Receive Increased Salaries

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24.—Chief Justice C. T. Marshall today administered the oath of office to Judges Florence E. Allen, Cleveland, and Robert H. Day, Marion, who were re-elected last month to six-year terms on the Ohio supreme court bench beginning Jan. 1, next.

Friends of Judges Allen and Day witnessed the ceremony which took place in the north courtroom, state-house annex. The oath was administered at this time, it was explained, because of the law which requires that the ceremony must take place within 20 days after the newly-elected judges receive their certificates of election.

Judges Allen and Day are the first supreme court judges to receive the increased salaries provided by the law enacted at the last session of the Ohio legislature, two years ago. This statute raises the annual salary of the chief justice to $12,500 from $9,000 and of associate judges to $12,000 from $8,500.

While Associate Judges Allen and Day are receiving their $12,000 each year, Chief Justice Marshall will continue on the $9,000 annual salary until he is re-elected or his successor is chosen in November, 1932. The other four associate judges will continue to receive $8,500 a year until their present terms expire.

SUNDAY NIGHT BURGLARY IS BELIEVED SOLVED

TOLEDO, Dec. 24.—Police believe today that they have solved the "Sunday night burglary" mystery with the arrest of a 68-year-old woman. Nearly every Sunday night for more than a month past homes in the city have been robbed at about the same hour.

Last night police encountered the woman burglar, a well-known house which had been ransacked. The driver, hunched, disabled and a large ring of keys were found on the woman. She is said to have just up a tree, battle with police before being overpowered.

PROSPECT MAN IS SANTA TO 360 CHILDREN

R. L. Watkins Host at Annual Christmas Party in Opera House

CANDY, TOYS GIVEN OUT

All Boys and Girls of Village Invited to Participate

BY KARL R. McELROY
Marion Star Staff Writer

"Hello, Nick, Merry Christmas to you."

That was the greeting given to Prospect's "favorite son" the other day by a little tot not more than seven or eight years of age. The subject of this greeting was R. L. Watkins, head of the R. L. Watkins Co. of Cleveland, who has made his mark in the world as a manufacturer of toilet preparations.

Mr. Watkins, as he is called by the members of his firm, and "Dick" by residents of Prospect, is the idol of the youth of his home town. Although he knows but few of them, the boys and girls of school age all know him by sight and never fail to greet him.

There is a reason behind all this popularity. When a man at the age of 61 years walks down the street, he seldom attracts but little attention from children as they are busy playing. But this man never fails to get a cheery greeting from the little fellows five years old or the children who have passed the 15-year mark.

One might easily describe Mr. Watkins as the "Santa Claus of Prospect." He is the sponsor of the annual Christmas party that is given children of school age in his home town.

This afternoon, Mr. Watkins is preparing to take care of at least 360 boys and girls between the ages of five and 12 years at his annual Christmas party in the Prospect opera house.

Today's affair will be the seventh party of its type to be given by Mr. Watkins. Candy and toys will be the treat offered to those attending and the entertainment will be in the form of a motion picture show suitable for children. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Prospect high school orchestra.

For the last several days Mr. Watkins has been busy effecting the purchasing of the gifts and candy. It was estimated that this year's party will cost around $1,500.

First Party
The first Christmas party was given by Mr. Watkins seven years ago. It was started then with an idea of giving a Christmas to the boys and girls.

ENGLAND JOYFUL AS KING IS IMPROVING

Public Goes on "Spending Spree" as Ruler's Wishes Are Revealed

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The joyous pre-Christmas festival spirit was heightened today by good news concerning King George V's recovery.

The following official medical bulletin was issued at Buckingham palace at 11:15 o'clock.

"The king has had a quiet night. The local condition continues to show progress. General conditions remain unchanged."

It was signed by Sir Stanley Bland, Sir Hugh Riggall and Lord Dawson of Penn.

Encouraged by statements that King George desired his subjects to have their usual festive Christmas holidays despite his illness, the English public has plunged into an orgy of Christmas spending which experts today estimated would reach a record figure.

According to present estimates, about $150,000,000 has already been spent in London alone. It is believed that before tonight London's total gift expenditures would reach a total of $200,000,000.

MAN ACCIDENT VICTIM; WIFE DIES IN HOSPITAL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 24.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Frederick L. Hastings, 45, and his wife, Marian.

Mrs. Hastings died in a hospital here following an operation. Hastings suffered fatal injuries when the taxi in which he was riding slid into a street car as he was enroute to his wife's bedside. The driver of the cab, said to have been Harry Grubb, has been charged with manslaughter.

Santa Leaves Alligator; Strawberries on Market

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24.—Santa Claus left a "black" alligator at the office of Ad. Gen. Frank Henderson in the afternoon. The little animal, which came from Miami, Fla., is believed to be the alligator that was shot by a hunter near the city.

Strawberries were sold at 25 cents a quart today. The fruit was brought in from the city market, and the price marked the lowest.

GREET SANTA FOR FIRST TIME

Merry? Why, who wouldn't be, folks? It's their very first Christmas and Santa surely won't forget six such smiling faces as those of the youngsters pictured above, all born since Jan. 1, 1928.

The parents of the children are as follows: Top row, left to right, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Doyle of Caledonia; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Adams, Marion R. F. D. No. 6; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Riddle, Sharp st.; Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Johnson, Augusta. Lower left, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Saperstein, Elm st., and lower right, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fletcher, Prospect.

HOOVER READY FOR CHRISTMAS

Old-Fashion Yuletide To Be Observed Aboard Battleship Utah

ABOARD U. S. S. UTAH, (VIA ARLINGTON, VA., RADIO STATION), Dec. 21.—Temporarily turning aside from the study of the difficult "problems" of state factious, President-Elect Hoover today personally aided the officers and crew of the battleship Utah in their preparations for a gala Christmas celebration.

A veteran globe-trotter, Mr. Hoover has spent a half dozen Christmases on ship board but this will be the first he has spent on a battleship. The president-elect and his wife spent the first Christmas of their married life on a ship bound for China. They spent two others at the Santa Canal where Mr. Hoover was engaged in engineering work.

The ship's officers and crew will mingle freely with those of the Hoover party and there will be gifts for all. Turkey will form the basis of the dinner. Many delicious tidbits picked up in South American ports will also be served.

There are 12 days of steady cruising ahead before the Utah reaches United States soil. No land will be sighted until the battleship reaches the Islands of the Caribbean sea.

POSTOFFICE WINDING UP RECORD BUSINESS

Local Force Handles Largest Christmas Rush in History

The Marion postoffice is just emerging from the biggest pre-Christmas rush in the history of the local department. The record business has been handled with amazing speed and efficiency.

For the first time in the history of the local postoffice a Sunday delivery was made. This was necessary not only because of the rush of business but on account of the flu epidemic which has been hitting the whole country. All foot carriers made one round yesterday while the parcel post men made about 15 trips throughout the day.

According to L. E. Cookston, assistant postmaster, all Christmas business will be cleaned up by the close of today except the special delivery mail which is just beginning to hit the local office.

The basement of the Marion office is filled with parcels which had to be brought back from homes where there was nobody on hand to receive the deliveries.

Seven extra men have been employed to handle the parcels.

Santa? Why Of Course

Answer to Virginia's Letter to Editor Is Recalled

EACH year children ask "Is there a Santa Claus?" By remarks have set childish heads to thinking. Their strong beliefs are undimmed.

One of the most appealing Santa Claus stories ever published and one that has stood the test of years is that of the answer of the New York Sun editor to little Virginia's question, "Is there a Santa Claus?"

It was back in 1897 that Virginia O'Hanlon, eight years old, worried about some of the things her little friends had said about there being no Santa Claus, wrote to the editor of the New York Sun.

ALL IN CITY TO HAVE PART IN HOLIDAY CHEER

Even Prisoners at County Jail Not Overlooked in Yule Happiness

SPECIAL DINNER

Other County Institutions Included in Christmas Program

Not even the bare of county jail will be sufficient to stay the Christmas spirit that will fill the homes and hearts of every Marion resident Tuesday.

Prisoners of the county jail will celebrate Christmas and enjoy a venison dinner served under the direction of Sheriff Deal. Their celebration may not be as pretentious as that of others here, but there will be a celebration. inmates of other county institutions will also observe the day.

Children at the Children's home will be the guests of Tender's Candland and the Palace theater for the day. At 11 o'clock the Marion Rapid Transit Co. will send buses to the home to bring the children to the first event in the day's celebration. That will be a turkey dinner at Tender's.

Then To Show
Then there will be a show at the Palace and after that a party back at Tender's. The management of the restaurant stated today that they would be present and other takers of Christmas day for the children. Others who wish to remember the children may take their gifts to the restaurant for distribution during the party, the management stated. The restaurant will be closed while the party and dinner are in progress.

Twenty-three inmates of the county detention home will be the guests of the Hildebrand Co. at a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. After the dinner, Mrs. Emma Hildebrand, will tell the story of Christmas.

There will be a few extras on the menu at the county jail. It was stated today. A number of organizations are said to be arranging to distribute treats to the prisoners. Officers of the Salvation Army made the rounds of the jail yesterday with a treat for each prisoner.

The Marion Rotary club held its annual Christmas party at noon today. The party was a feature of the day.

CITY TO OPEN BIDS FROM BANKS JAN. 2

Arrangements Made for Awarding Depository Contracts

Work is now going forward on the preparation of the 1929 budget and appropriations. This will be ready to present for the approval of the city council within the next few weeks.

PILGRIMS GATHERING AT NATIVITY SCENE

United in Single Brotherhood of Devotion at Bethlehem

JERUSALEM, Dec. 24.—Pilgrims of peace and good will, drawn from America, Europe and the far corners of the world, gathered today to pay their devotion upon the spot where Christ was born nearly 20 centuries ago.

The fields of Boaz and Ruth surround Bethlehem today just as they were at the dawn of Christianity when the wise men of the east saw the star which blazed its miraculous message.

from the time of the birth of Christ. The pilgrims will gather throughout Christmas day, chanting, "Gloria in Excelsis and Laudamus, in prayer."

There will be a special watch service tonight at the Church of the Nativity, whose basilica rises over the spot where Christ was born in the manger.

Christmas morning will be heralded with the ringing of bells, the playing of organs and the carols that rise from the Angels' field.

Pilgrimage to Grotto
Later there will be a pilgrimage to the grotto beneath the church, where, tradition says, the humble, cave-like room stood where the Saviour was born.

The church and the grotto will be open all day tomorrow for worship. At intervals throughout the morning, bands of pilgrims led by the priestly custodians of the church, will move slowly through the streets chanting carols.

As the years have progressed the numbers of pilgrims to this holy shrine have grown constantly larger at Christmas time. They gather from every quarter of the globe and mingle in a common brotherhood despite the differences of language. Their adoration for the faith and their awe at being within the shadow of the Holy Land unite them in a single brotherhood of devotion.

Some of the pilgrims carry home with them some trinket or memento of the scene. Just as Ruth visited these same fields to pick up a few ears of corn left by the harvesters, so pilgrims gather little mementos from the ground where the feet of the early martyrs once trod.

"The happy man is inclined to laugh and grow fat, spreading the theory that nobody loves a fat man."

Couple With Four Sets of Twins Awaiting Santa

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Twenty-six pairs of stockings will hang at the Hober residence, out near Anacostia, tonight. Eight of them represent four sets of twins.

For the Groses C. Hober have had four pairs of twins in the last seven years and in their 22 years of married life they have brought 17 children into the world, one of whom died and one has married.

If there's another pair next Christmas, take it from Mrs. Hober, "they'll be welcome."

None of that double quartet has any doubt about this Santa Claus business. "They know. Their father they handily inform all 17, sooner, has written and mailed a letter to Santa Claus in which he has carefully reviewed the desires of each, together with an authoritative report that each has been a good child. The letter was signed by these old folks, to write and the younger ones made their marks. Santa Claus won't have much trouble getting the things in the house without being seen because the whole brood is in bed by 7 o'clock.

"They're in bed by seven and they all get up early," said Mrs. Hober. "They're all healthy, too."

"We are all healthy people," she said. "Mr. Hober hasn't missed any time at work since we

'Twas the Night---

By Clement Clarke Moore

TWAS the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her 'kerchief and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed to see what was the matter,
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash,
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
Saw a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer, now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Dunder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky;
So up to the house-top the couriers they flew,
With the sleigh full of Toys, and St. Nicholas, too,
And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of Toys he had slung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack,
His eyes-how they twinkled! his dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow;
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a round little belly,
That shook when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose;
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle,
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night!"

One of the numerous Christmas programs given by the churches of Marion was presented by the choir of the First Presbyterian church. In the absence of the regular minister, the Rev. Howard Oewiler, John Dactrum read the service.

In the cantata that followed, Mrs. Harry T. Williams presided at the organ, and Charles Collier directed the music. An organ prelude, "Gloria in B-flat," by Pietro Yon, was played by Mrs. Williams, followed by the introduction to the cantata, "Darkness and Light," "The Prophecy," "The Preparation," "The Advent," and "The Nativity." The cantata was composed of solos and choruses by the choir. An offertory, "Oh, Holy Night," was presented by the organist. The cantata continued with "The Angel's Story," "The Shepherd's Journey," "Herald and the Magi," an organ interlude, "The March of the Magi," a chorus, "Fruits to the Newborn King," and ended with "The Hallelujah Chorus," by Handel, arrangement by Du Bois.

FORECAST HER RETURN TO STAGE

That Maudie Adams, famous actress, has been coaxed to come out of her retirement for a limited touring engagement, is the apparently well-founded report current on Broadway. But friends of the star refused either to confirm or deny it. The painting above portrays Maudie Adams in the role of Peter Pan, perhaps the most popular of her career.

Jan. 4, the Rev. J. C. Houser will conduct the prayer at the Presbyterian denomination. Plans are that these meetings will be real prayer sessions rather than the formal preaching services.

Water in which onions may have been boiled, if rubbed over picture frames will keep the frames free from fly specks.

Silver should be washed in a bowl or basin by itself. If touched with a greasy cloth it will have to be washed over again. It should always be well rinsed in order to retain the polish.

PROSPECT RESIDENT- SANTA TO CHILDREN

Prospects whose parents were in attendance at the party, Mr. Watkins said, that day, Mr. Watkins and his 12 children attended and the party was held at his home. It was very cold but it did not hinder the enjoyment of the affair in the least, he said.

Each year the pre-Christmas parties continued to grow in popularity until four years ago the number attending grew too large for convenient handling at his home. It was then that the event was transferred to the opera house, where it has been held ever since. From an attendance of 12 the number has gradually increased until last year 229 persons attended. Instead of just poor children attending, the event was thrown open to all school students between the ages of five and 12 years.

Stomach Co-operate
An estimate on the number that will attend each year is obtained through the schools. Through co-operation with the teachers tickets are handed out. These tickets are presented at the door of the opera house for admittance. However, Mr. Watkins has instructed his men not to bar children without these pasted tickets. The idea has grown so much that children from nearby villages are brought to Prospect for the affair each year.

A number of children will be unable to attend on account of being ill with the flu. In order that no one will be disappointed, Mr. Watkins has arranged to present those unable to attend with their gifts at home. These gifts will be distributed immediately following the main party.

"How did you happen to start the Christmas party idea?" That was the question asked of Mr. Watkins by the writer. He could give no definite reason, being rather at a loss himself to explain it. His father, the late Matt Watkins, was a great lover of children, he said. Mr. Watkins claims to have inherited none of these traits, but he did not like to be bothered by them. As he grew older Mr. Watkins said he began thinking of his father's liking for the boys and girls of Prospect. He thought of the matter for some time and then decided to hold a Christmas party for the sons and daughters of poor prospects. That was seven years ago.

Interested in Youth
This morning Mr. Watkins was looking forward to the seventh party with a great deal of interest. He has his home a real liking for the youth of his community.

After every party, Mr. Watkins stated that he received a large number of letters from his young friends expressing their appreciation for the gifts. These letters have been saved by Mr. Watkins and are among his most treasured possessions.

bearing a description of the man held here from WLW. The sheriff has been requested to send a photograph to the Kansas town for identification.

The mysterious stranger hardly resembles of passing through Ft. Wayne. Other incidents concerning his travels are sketchy. The door to his memory seems to have been slightly closed that everything previous to the accident is blotted out.

Travels of the man held here have led him through Ft. Wayne, Detroit and Toledo, according to Sheriff Deal. He told the sheriff that he had asked for aid in other places but the investigation now under way was the first made by officials to locate his relatives.

The stranger arrived in Marion about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He was brought here by a traveling salesman who had picked him up along the road. The salesman directed him to the sheriff's office, where he later told his sketchy story.

THE king and queen of Afghanistan are shut up in the fortress of Kabul, hemmed in by rebellious Afghans. King Amanullah visited England, bought British clothes for his wife and himself, and went home to introduce reforms. These reforms are on women's faces, equal rights for women, Afghan barbarians did not like this, hence the trouble.

Fortunately for British women and children, the Kabul fortress has plenty of room for airplane landing. British planes were sent to take out the British women and children yesterday, also women from India.

no concerted foreign movement to isolate our

If we get President Coolidge correctly, the

Mr. Hoover polled 21,429,109 votes and yet live one.

Of the 23,230 persons, who submitted plans
to secure the $30,000 in prizes offered by W. C. Durant for the best solution of the mended capital punishment for the violation of the eighteenth amendment. We have fanatics with us always.

A Spanish bull fighter has been barred from further professional appearances in

then, all artists are temperamental.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason B. Payne, of Panquier county, Virginia, will celebrate their seventeenth wedding next Friday. Of course, they had this advantage, they got a pretty good start in living decently before free love
and companionate marriage came into popularity.

Many who have witnessed a stage production of "Able, Baker, Roach" will be willing to accept at par Miss Nichols' statement that she has never read Shakespeare. And yet the thing is said to have brought her revenues
of $22,000,000.

Izzy Einstein, a member of the former team of "Izzy and Moo," has passed the civil service examination and is after his former job as a prohibition enforcement officer.
There has been so much tragedy in prohibition enforcement of late that a little comedy
will not come amiss.

The court up in Jackson, Michigan, manifestly took the view that, if that fifteen-year-old school boy was old enough to outrage and kill his former school teacher, he was old enough to be punished for it, and sentenced him to prison for life, which is as it should be, provided that there wasn't any way for hanging him.

A Connecticut farmer is being sued for $2,500 damages by a woman autoist for injuries sustained by her when she drove her automobile into a "row he was leading on the roadway unacquainted with a tail-light."
The moral of the thing is as plain as the nose on your face. Farmers should keep their stock off roadways unacquainted with tail-lights.

Bars to Good Understanding.

During the course of the present good-will trip of Mr. Hoover and his party one of the contributing causes of lack of better understanding between the United States and the Latin-American peoples has been discovered
to be the improper picturing of this country
and its people by the movies and press reports.

The people of South and Central America do not realize that life as it is in the United States is seldom, if ever, pictured by the movies; that the life pictured by the movies is as foreign to the great masses of the people of the United States as it is to the people of South America, and that the stories of all kinds of crime and scandal and often
with the exceptions in our national life
and not the rule.

This false conception of our land and our people has been found to be very general throughout South America, not only on the part of the ignorant classes, but also on the part of men and women of education and understanding.

It is not necessary to call the attention of our readers to the evil effect of the screen and the sensational press on the youth of the land and public morals generally. All of us have been cognizant of it. But while we have seen the evil effect at home, we very probably have not looked sufficiently afar to recognize the possible evil effect on our relations with the outside world. A moment's consideration is sufficient to bring realization of how easily
the movies and press sensationalism may have estranged us from the esteem and respect of the outside world.

"Merry Christmas!"

The advent of Christmas is near at hand.
A few hours more, and the great holiday of holidays will be here.

We celebrate Christmas as the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour, the great figure of all history, the Man born of woman to become Redeemer of the world, the Son of God
who has steadily appreciated in the honor and love of mankind since that awful day on Calvary nearly nineteen centuries ago.

Most holidays are such by order, by decree,
by proclamation, or are made such by law,
but the most generally observed of all holidays, a holiday of worldwide scope, is the glad, voluntary observation to the honor and glory of Him who gave up His life that whosoever believeth in Him shall never die.

The Christmas holiday season is the most revealing of the year; during it we come nearer to revealing what we are and all we are than in any other season of the year.
During it, we think and plan and act for the happiness of others, and we in turn get happiness out of the happiness we bring to friends and loved ones. Few of us are entirely free from selfishness, but at Christmas time the most of us come nearer being so than at any other time. At Christmas time,
as at no other time, we have brought home to us how "It is more blessed to give than to receive." We have it brought home to us by the joy we get in giving.

There are times and occasions when the most of us are inclined to become disgusted with the trend of affairs; when we are inclined to feel that the world is on the retrograde; times when we are inclined to worry over the future of this land of ours and the people in it, but this is not true at Christmas time, for at Christmas time humanity is revealed, as we have said, as it really is and we know that ours is a great land in which to live and that people, as a class, are bigger-hearted, and better, and finer than we ordinarily are inclined to hold them.

And it is this feeling, this conviction, which comes to us at Christmas time, which enables us wholeheartedly to say to our loved ones,
our friends and our fellow-citizens: "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!"

There's not the slightest chance that John Duroski, convicted of the murder of a farmer up near Perry sound will be pro-motedly pardoned. The Canadians guarded against that by hanging him.

A Paris editor says that Herbert Hoover is pro-German and he sees an Anglo-American German alliance in the offing. And we naturally thought the French had abandoned absolutism.

Constant Talmadge denies the report of another marriage. It's hardly fair to Constantine to start a report like that. She has a hard enough time, as it is, in keeping tab on her marriages.

For some reason, the pacifists and disloyalists generally are saying very little about the withdrawing of the marines from Nicaragua. Still, it can hardly be held that their course in that respect is wholly surprising.

Ignatz Polz, who has been the recipient of executive clemency three times since sentenced to death for the murder of a policeman, and four other murderers were pardoned last week by the governor of Illinois. It is any wonder that crime has attained the ascendancy it has over decency
over in the Sucker state?

A London cable says the British are planning to attract United States tourist dollars. It may be noted that the British aren't worrying a bit over what will befall
United States dollars once they get them over there. They know their stuff when it comes to the extraction of coin from the traveler.

Soviet officials are attempting to get Mr.
Ford to build a big factory in Russia. "Uncle Henry," it must be admitted, once attempted to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas," but that doesn't mean that he is going to be guilty of a still greater folly.

It has been developed that, so great was the admiration of the former crown prince of Germany for the military ability displayed by General Farrall in defending Verdun that on New Year's day, 1915, he sent a card to the French commander reading: "I wish to my chivalrous adversary a happy New Year."
Wilhelm is a better sport than we thought he was.

As the pressure to bring about the modification of the Versailles treaty, as unfair, gathers force, it may not be amiss to call attention to the possibility that the Harding administration manifested wisdom in urging
a separate treaty with Germany.

Viscount Brug of Viny may not make a success as head of Scotland Yard, but the way allen night club proprietors are fleeing from England and the native proprietors are shutting up their places rather goes to show that he has thrown an awful scare into the liquor law violators.

If we get Sir Thomas Lipton correctly, the real reason why he is still a bachelor at seventy-eight is because all the women are so charming that he was never able to concentrate his admiration on one. There's where a business career lost the world a great diplomat.

The will of a former resident of Baltimore sets aside $100,000 for a monument depicting the parting of Robert E. Lee and Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson. No matter
the battle of Chancellorsville. Just before what one may think of the cause for which they fought, there can be no discounting of the ability of the two men thus to be memorialized. They stand easily among the foremost military figures in the nation's history.

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

"The Temple of God."

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Tomorrow will be Christmas. It is the day of all days, because it commemorates the birth of the Christ Child.

We can rejoice on Christmas day and every day that the incident of birth means little in the final outcome of our lives. The memory of the innocent child who came to this world to die
for us is a reminder of the love of God.

He came to this world, took His place in the primitive society of His day, and worked as a carpenter. From that lowly position Jesus Christ has come to be recognized as His Saviour by fully half the world.

In seeking to fathom the future of the newborn babe, the incident of birth may be disregarded. The early surroundings of the child do not determine his career, provided he has a strong body, a good mind and goodness of soul.
The child may be born in a palace and die in a hovel. He may be born in a manger and arrive at a throne.

Just as the Christ Child was unhampered by the conditions of humble birth, so any child may be strong, as Jesus did. No matter how poor may be the home in which he is born, it can not begin to be as humble as the place where Jesus saw the light of day.

In North America it is made possible for every parent to give his child the proper beginning.
To give the child a healthy body is greater than riches. No matter how lacking the home may be in things making for physical ease and comfort, it can be the abiding place of perfect health.
In the spirit of the Christ Jesus communities have established health centers, hospitals and clinics. Only health centers supply pure milk, medical advice and nursing care. In many states, counties provide district nursing. The states and provinces send out sanitary trains and disseminate health knowledge. Newspapers and magazines supply their readers with medical advice. Every school teacher physiology and hygiene. High schools, colleges, and the churches regard their gymnasiums and out-door courts as essential features of their work.

No one can read the Bible without being impressed by the idea that the body is the temple of God. Each of us dwells in a holy place. Fortunate indeed is that family where father and mother in their devotion to child life teach the solemn obligation that God's temple must not be defiled.

On this Christmas day, the birthday of the Christ Child, let every parent in the world take a solemn vow that the children in that home shall be given every opportunity for health. Let every child in all the world dedicate himself to habits which make for good health and long life. Let every person determine upon a conduct of life that shall guarantee to posterity a heritage of good health.

Many of the preachers today will speak of the influence of Jesus Christ upon the spiritual life of the world. Let us not forget that the physical work of the Master did much to make possible
His divine mission.

Among the good gifts we give our children today, in contemplation of the future, let us
prize above all others the gift of good health.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday.
Thomas Kegan purchased the plumbing business of Stock and Doget in the Y. M. C. A. building.

The city had collected but $28.50 for building permits during the year, but far more than fifty-seven buildings had been constructed.

The Star stated that the Decker school building south of Maitel had been threatened by fire, the day before, but luckily the fire
was discovered and put out by farmers.

Marriage licenses were issued to Anna
Maud Norton and Bruce Atkinson Lukins,
and to Mrs. Elizabeth Heffner and Fred E.
McDonald.

Three hundred residents of Marion engaged in a fox hunt. The fox was caught, but somebody stole the bush.

If thou call the sabbath a delight,
and shalt honor Him, not doing thine
own ways; then I will cause thee
to ride upon the high places of the earth, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken.—Isaiah 58:13-14.

Prayer.—May Thy day, Lord, ever
be a delight to our souls.

Editorial Opinion.

THE MAFIA AND THE LAW.

Chicago gangsters are trying to beat criminal charges against the leading men in their organization by killing the important witnesses, threatening
with death other witnesses and sending death
threats by mail to prosecutors and judges presiding at the trials. The force of the Mafia has been shown repeatedly in the campaign of terror now under way to save from prison a gang of hooligans and extortionists. The courtroom is guarded by a platoon of armed officers, a detail of police officers
travels with the prosecutor, the home of the trial
judge is under guard. The Mafia has decided, apparently, to try out the full strength it has with the courts and police, to determine which group
is in control in that city.

In this experience, Chicago is learning something about the high price it must pay for permitting gang politics to rule the city and for allowing the underworld to dominate the administration during recent years, and engage in a partnership with the organized criminals of the city. The things and criminals were quick to enter that partnership. It permitted them to operate freely, and with little danger. They organized their activities, the law violators became rich, likewise they became arrogant, just as the underworld does on every occasion when government and those in authority join with it in political activities.

That great commercial capital of the central section of the United States has had slots and bookends at the will of the gangs for years, and the law has been made contemptible repeatedly by cowardly weakness and inactivity. Now that some effort is being made to break the gang control the Mafia leaders use the plan of the Old world, kill those in the way and ferociously others, so further protection will not be started. Chicago has urged that, until it has grown strong, and able to make its bite deadly and terrible.

Chicago has but one duty now, gang control must be broken, no matter how great the cost may be. If Chicago is to remain the great city she must clean house, hesitating at nothing in making the task entirely complete. The humiliating situation that city presents is the natural result of a combination of political and professional crooks. The voters of the city gave their sanction to unworthy candidates and retained in office men who gave bad advice in betraying the public. They must pay the price of their folly and the price is great.—

SCORE ONE FOR COOPER.

The Ohio Anti-Saloon league worked diligently in behalf of Myers X. Cooper for the Republican nomination and was favorable to his election as governor. The Anti-Saloon league is not in the habit of working for any candidate whom it does not hope to control if elected. Governor-Elect Cooper, making good his promise that no group or organization would control his policies, has turned the Anti-Saloon league down emphatically in the matter of naming a state prohibition commissioner, and thereby has earned the commendation of intelligent Ohioans who are weary of the league's effort to dominate the state government.

Of all appointments to be made by Mr. Cooper
that of prohibition commissioner is considered most important by the Anti-Saloon league. It expected every chance of its influence in behalf of its favored candidate.

Rupert H. Bretham, Mr. Cooper's selection, is a dry both personally and politically, a man of considerable public experience and undoubtedly competent to fill the office of prohibition commissioner. The mere fact that the league's candidate would have owed his appointment to the league
would have greatly lessened its usefulness.

The Anti-Saloon league, in Ohio as elsewhere,
has in recent years become more and more a political organization which seeks to function as a super government. Thousands of conscientious dry-have withdrawn their support from the league.
The appointment of Bretham reflects credit upon the governor-elect, and is a hopeful indication that he will give Ohio an independent and fearless administration.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Diary of a modern Peppy: Lay until the clock struck 11 and up with much groaning, resolving never again
to partake of raw hamburger and chopped onions after midnight. So puttered about with the mail and pleased with a note from Elsie Jans in England.

With my wife to lunch and saw among others Will Hays, Charles Dana Gibson, Bernard Gimble and Peggy Hoyt and then to window shop until time to meet my mother in-law returning from the Middle West. And at the station saw two sorry youths chained
to detectives on their way "up the river."

In the evening to see Alexander Mosaic in Tolstoy's "Redemption," and no actor ever stirred me more albeit he spoke in German,
which I do not understand. So talked awhile to Edgar Selwyn and Robert H. Davis, and then to my lodgings.

The "Somerset Maugham canape"—there's a career, naming canapes—has become one of the most delectable cocktail tid bits of the town. They were originated by a Far East servant at Maugham's right of the Riviera
and consist of a green olive stuffed with nuts,
dipped in a fiery relish and wrapped in piping hot bacon.

Ladies who devote the major part of their time in trying to achieve the thinness of a whip may be interested in a cafe to open shortly, with a staff dietician. He will plan meals without charge that will not "put on the lard."

And, what with America becoming "liver
colicous," all of a sudden, liver is now listed on some menus at $1.25 a portion. It is the same portion the butcher used to chuck in free for the cat. Doctors who prescribe it for blood-making virtues say it has no value
unless served almost raw.

The profession of interior decorating is said to have a hundred applicants for every job. Young girls with plenty of leisure and planning for a career used to take up nursing or settlement work. In the past few years they have turned to interior decorating and many with sufficient income for their needs are doing the work without charge, merely for experience. This has naturally resulted in much thumb twiddling in one of the new arts.

The acrobat is the object of a new interest
When he used to walk on, the audience walked out. He was a "dumb act," and the supreme in vaudeville contempt was uncomplicated in: "May all your children be acrobatists!" Lately the acrobat has figured in the "Laugh Clown, Laugh" theme in the movies, on the stage and in novels. He created an undercurrent of sympathy he had never known before. The acrobat, due to the nature of his calling, is perhaps the cleanest living of all performers. He rarely associates with fellow-players, and his thrift is such
he rarely needs a benefit.

The Spanish shawl, so popular a few seasons ago, seems to have gone out like the long skirts. And a shop on Madison avenue is offering those huge Spanish combs for one-third the former price. Even the Spanish dancer in latticed pants and dinky waiter coat is rarely seen any more. Still, we can't have everything.

The old Empire theater is the last of the Antique buyers can usually be sold what-

A Great Association.

BY GARRETT P. SERVICE.

The American Association for the Advanc-ment of Science holds its annual meeting in the city of New York in the closing days of this month of December. This is an occasion which may well make a stir even in so great and busy a city as the American money
metropolis, with its 6,000,000 inhabitants.
This great association represents every branch of modern science. Its membership includes men and women, known and unknown to fame, from every part of the land.
Every intelligent, educated person may become a member, and attend the meetings.
The cost is slight; the advantages are great.
The best that American thought and research
have attained up to date will be presented in papers, addresses, exhibitions and references during the session which will last from Thursday evening, December 27, to the eve of New Years, December 31. This will no doubt be the most largely attended meeting that the association has ever held.

The sessions of the many sections of the association and the many scientific societies associated with the Sunday sessions, will be held morning, afternoon and evening in the various halls, rooms and auditoriums of the American Museum of Natural History and Columbia university. An elaborate program will serve as a guide to all the meetings and exhibitions. It will undoubtedly be a grand buzz of the bees of science, and a stunning swarming of facts, hypotheses, theories, researches, aspirations, such as has not hitherto been equalled.

A Sunday—December 30—will fall, not as noticed, into the midst of the program. The official announcement already calls attention to this under the heading "Sunday Features,"
where it is stated that: "It is expected that a number of the leading clergymen of the city will give special attention to nature and religion in their Sunday discourses"—a not unlikely expectation, since many of these gentlemen already lean that way. The sermons will be followed on Sunday afternoon
with a concert by the New York Philharmonic Symphony society in Carnegie hall, and on Sunday evening by a reception at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. So, science, religion and art will combine their efforts on this notable Sunday.

The immense collections of the American Museum of Natural History, including geologic skeletons of prehistoric animals, and gigantic masses of meteoric iron fallen from the sky, will be open to inspection daily and nightly. Some of the addresses to be given by scientific leaders will touch upon subjects
so new that they are like uncertain glimpses into a wonderful future. There will be a conference, for instance, on "wave mechanics," a subject so obscure that it strains
the powers of mathematicians, yet of enormous fundamental interest, since it seems to be at the basis of the whole atomic, or electronic, theory, where it is not unlikely to fit
a curtain behind which the ultimate secrets
of nature may be hidden.

There will be lectures and exhibitions on astronomy that should fascinate thousands of hearers and seers, and every branch of science will be exhibited in its newest dress.
Chemistry will endeavor to justify the enthusiastic assertion of some of its sponsors that it has established a "Synthetic Kingdom"
which "overrides the traditional dividing lines between animal, vegetable and mineral." It will be a valuable mental exercise for the teaching public to listen to these things and endeavor to form a Socratic judgment upon them. Wisdom, after all, as President Lowell has recently said, is a perception of the relative value of things.—Copyright, 1925,

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The king of Afghanistan, in the heart of Asia, has been in Europe getting some western and presumably Christian ideas. He has also been doing a little shopping, buying
some of the things that are most popular among Christian nations. He bought $5,500 rifles, 106 heavy field guns, some machine guns, six tanks, and five armored cars.

Thus does civilization spread across the world.

Curious things happen in this prohibition country of ours. A Milwaukee firm received the other day the largest shipment of Bohe-mian hops to pass through the custom-house since we have had what passes for prohibition. The shipment amounted to 115,000 pounds. The hops are baled, each bale weighing 600 pounds. This activity in the hop market represents a new effort of the near-beer makers to produce beer closer to the pre-war original and still stay within the terms of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead enforcement law.

A recent fire in Atlantic City burned up $100,000 worth of Christmas toys and similar merchandise. It is fortunate for America children and for all of us that we live in a rich country. No child will go without a school today cancelled the Christmas basketball games to have been played with Columbus Central high and the Mt. Victory girls' teams. This marked the second scheduled halt of the locals to be canceled this season because of illness, the Ada contest last Friday being postponed. Dalton Metzger, faculty manager of athletics, stated today that members of the boys' and girls' squads were in good condition and would resume their practice sessions at the armory Monday afternoon at 2 and at 4 o'clock. Permission has been granted the school to hold its scheduled game Friday, Dec. 25 when Kenton high meets Wapakoneta at the armory.

DISTRIBUTE GIFTS

White Christmas Service Held at Baptist Church.

A white Christmas service was held at Trinity Baptist church Sunday morning. Each member in the Sunday school, from the beginners' class to the adult classes, brought gifts wrapped in white paper, which were placed on the rostrum at the base of a large Christmas tree. Later the gifts were assorted into 16 Christmas baskets of food and toys to be distributed to the poor today. Thirteen "cheer" baskets of fruit, nuts and candies were made ready for distribution to out-ings of the church membership also.
The committee in charge consisted of J. S. Whaley, chairman, Mrs. H. F. Pulsford, Mrs. J. S. Whaley and Miss Isabel Hastings, assisted by F. H. Lemasters, superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Grace Hurford, superintendent of the junior department, Mrs. Clay Smith, superintendent of the primary department and Miss Gail Gorman, superintendent of the beginners' department. Special music was played by the church orchestra under the direction of T. H. Evans. In the church service music was given by the choir, with D. W. Shadaker as leader.
In the evening service, "The Guiding Star," a pageant directed by Miss Melina Summers, was presented. Costumes were especially designed by Miss Edith Keeler.

Meditations OF A Married Woman
BY HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands, Please Copy
I KNOW a woman writer who will soon celebrate her twelfth wedding anniversary. (Yes, yes! With the SAME husband.)

Now, in these days of progressive matrimony and instantaneous divorce, when a professional woman remains married to the same man for twelve years, she ought to offer some explanation. Here is HRS's:

"My husband has a lot of faults—big, whopping ones!—But, strange to say, so have I! Taking all our faults together, we shall probably have to do some clever maneuvering to get past St. Peter, through the Pearly Gates."

"He has a healthy temper, a passion for giving 'advice,' and a secret conviction that woman's place is on the floor cleaning up his cigar ashes."

"BUT—in all our years of wedded vicissitudes, he has never done or said a single word to fill me with an inferiority complex!"

"He has never told me that my nose needed powdering, that I looked seedy, that there was a run in my stocking, that my hat was unbecoming, or that I was getting FAT!"

"He has never been grumpy at breakfast."

"He has never forgotten the national kiss—nor just 'made a pass' at me, with his hat on his head, his hand on the door, his eye on the clock, and his mind on the office."

"He has never opened on of my letters or shown the least curiosity about my mail, until I volunteered to read it to him."

"He has never looked twice at another woman—in my presence.

"He has never criticized me in public—nor even admitted to me in private that I HAD made a fool of myself."

"No matter what I wear, it is always 'cute' or 'stunning.'"

"No matter what I say, it is always 'clever.'"

"No matter what I wrote, it is always 'brilliant' or 'wonderful' or 'great!'—to HIM."

"I may have to remind him of our wedding anniversary or to drop a hint about my birthday, but he never fails to come across with FLOWERS. And to this day, he always signs his letters 'Your Adorer!'"

"In short, he thinks I'm 'just a little bit of ALL RIGHT'—and he's not saying all the compliments for my tombstone and all the posies for my grave! He's no Paragon—but he's a luxury and a joy. He's my BEST FRIEND! Thank you, I've never even thought tentatively of Rene, in twelve years!"

No, dear reader, this is no mythical man. I happen to know—because he's my husband. You guessed it! Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"If I am not mistaken," Lillian said softly, "Katie is bringing us a manifestation of one of man's qualities, admirable or otherwise."

My little man's entrance put a new meaning on the word. Katie was waving some bills and almost choking in her ecstasy at the thought that she had her own little money to tell her what had happened.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

BY DOROTHY HERZOG
Marion Star Staff Writer

Madge Bellamy

HOLLYWOOD — Betty Bronson has been going modern the first of the year. Yes, Betty plans to take an apartment all by her lonesome. To remove herself, bag and baggage, from the maternal fringe and discover how it feels to love with it. I told you "Peter Pan" was skipping past adolescence.

If a hangover could talk, boy, it would be one on the Fox lot occupied by Madge Bellamy would burn up a cigarette. Jack Gilbert had his arm tucked on the door for several years. The walls heard him blaze a path to friends regarding his marital battles with Lestrade Joy.

Tom Madge moved in. Madge, too, is a lot of blazes in regard to the married to whom she was married for several days.

A group of houses Miss Bellamy has prepared a charming home near Las Vegas and lives there with her parents. At present she is making a movie except "Exiles," directed by William Deaudine. Curiously enough, Jack Gilbert starred in this flicker many years ago when he emoted for the folk. This fits in with the hangover racket, you know.

There's a lad playing a plump role in support of Miss Bellamy named Don Terry. Don is a Harvard graduate. I believe he studied law and would sing the legal phrases in court cases as cases. Don doesn't choose after graduating from Harvard he played professional football—he was a Harvard pigskin letter man. Then he tried professional boxing and did quite a bit of it. I believe, both in New York and England. He also invested cash in the stock market and cleaned up the nest sum of $140,000.

Some months ago he hit West with a friend of his and was to meet this day in San Francisco after spending a few weeks in Hollywood. They planned to trail across to Honolulu. Well, Don bought himself a Ford (a pre-war Ford) and toured the countryside. Not having glimpsed a movie star, and figuring he should, he visited the Montmartre one noon.

Charles Cox, author of "Mr. Gangster," and Director Raoul Walsh were there the same noon wondering who they would get to play the district attorney in the picture. Cox spotted Don Terry. He went over to his table, introduced himself, asked him if he wanted to make a screen test. Don thought he was kidding. He wasn't so Don made the test the following afternoon—not the morning, as Cox wanted—because Don had a golf engagement. Terry got the job and a five-year contract. He's a good looking blond six foot plus.

He must have made good in "Mr. Gangster" for he's working in our good picture. The other day he didn't have to work, but he reported for the same. Horrored a pair of emalls. Persuaded an electrician in his wings to let him man the night. Left coiling down solicitously to Miss Bellamy: "Is the light all right?" Inasmuch as electricians never carry on thusly, Madge usually gave this one the careful once over and discovered him to be the flicker boy. Don says he can also sing.

Screen Scribbles:
Mrs. James Gleason is up and about after a week's argument with the flu. She feels each except her head (they aren't limbs anymore in Hollywood) are a bit wobbly. Virginia Valli and Charlie Farrell, Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford enjoying the Los Angeles stage production of "The Royal Family." Charlie says 'twas marvellously grand to have night free after day and night work in his last flicker. At the opening here of "The Barker" Joan Crawford stepped to the microphone and crooned to those present and listening in: "I hope you all like my Do-Do (Doug, Jr.) as much as I do." Sweet?

FIVE PERSONS DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Sixth Man May Die of Injuries; Driver of Car Unhurt

HOPE, Mich., Dec. 21—Five persons are dead and two others are being treated at a hospital today following an automobile accident near this village early yesterday.

The tragedy occurred when an automobile containing a party of seven persons all of Elletts, Mich., careened into a ditch and crashed into a tree. Oddly enough, the driver of the car, Zolton Shepley, was the only member of the party to escape serious injury.

The dead, Jacob Adler, 21, Christopher Prisorger, Jr., 29, Charles Stein, 27, Adam Wolbert, 21, and Mrs. Leo Dorochev, 37, the sixth member of the party, died at the hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Shepley, the driver, sustained only minor cuts and bruises. He is being held pending an investigation by the prosecuting attorney.

The accident occurred about 3 o'clock Sunday morning after the party had left a dance hall. The automobile believed traveling at a high speed, left the gravel road at a curve, skidded long, a ditch and piled up against an oak tree.

WHAT'S WRONG?

Mistletoe Losing Popularity Here, Florist Says

MISTLETOE as a Christmas decoration, is losing its traditional value, possibly due to the younger generation, rather than the lack of Yuletide atmosphere, according to information coming from B. F. Blake, Marion florist.

Mistletoe, Mr. Blake said to day, is plentiful enough, but the demand is growing less each year.

People buy a little bunch for 25 cents, enough to put on the chandelier, and then decorate the rest of the house with crepe paper and bells.

Other Christmas greens are plentiful but they too are no longer in demand. Poinsettias and holly are selling a little better, probably due to the beauty and the light they bring to the home.

DESIGNS FLAG

Former Marion Man Plans Proposed Emblem for Columbus

A drawing for a new flag for the city of Columbus designed by Karl Bolander, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bolander, South Prospect st., was reproduced in the "Evening" Show section of the Sunday Columbus Dispatch. The flag carries the colors of United States, Italy and Spain, the "17th star" under the eagle, the capital above, eight stars to either side representing the 16 states which preceded Ohio into the union, the Santa Maria on the shield and a wreath of buckeye leaves around the lower side of the inner circle.

Mr. Bolander is director of the Columbus School of Art.

KILLS 2 BANDITS

Former Italian Army Officer This Plays Game, Marksmanship

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Peter Cardone, 31, former Italian army officer and World War veteran, was invited by Police Commissioner to discuss Whelan today as the hero of a dramatic killing the wildest action thriller displaying courage that was exceeded only by his marksmanship. Cardone shot and killed two of four bandits who attempted to hold up a celebrity card game in Brooklyn apartment early yesterday.

Of the four card players, Cardone was the only one armed. The gun battle was one of the fiercest ever waged within the confines of a small room. In addition to the two bandits two "kibitzers" who were watching the game were killed. One, Leo Masi, was shot by a bandit and the other, Nicholas Salzone, lost his head and plunged through a window to his death on the pavement three stories below.

ROCKEFELLER CHURCH FLAMING TORCH

The new $1,000,000 church, being built at Riverside Drive and 122d street, New York City, was swept by a fire which, after destroying costly interior, mounted to the lofty tower. Here firemen are fighting the flames as they roar high above the street. Heaviest subscriber to the new church was John D. Rockefeller, Sr., multi-millionaire and philanthropist.

REVEAL HISTORY OF U. S. BACK IN 1915

Volume Covers Correspondence of This Country with Its Diplomatic Officers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Much unpublished history of the United States was made available to the public today by the state department in a new volume of foreign relations for the year 1915.

The volume covers all the correspondence this country had with its diplomatic officers abroad, and for the offices of the belligerents, from December, 1914 to January, 1916. It discloses how the state department looked upon the Ford peace ship, unfolds the increasingly intensified exchange with England over the rights of neutrals, and for the first time discloses that Austrian Ambassador Duma was not "haunted by his passport" as popularly believed, but being Secretary of State Frank Polk "requested" his recall.

Polk's correspondence with Ambassador Penfield at Vienna reveals the efforts made by the Austrian government to escape the humiliation of having her ambassador sent home, which resulted in Polk sending a telegram to Penfield which said, "there were only two courses open to this government, either to hand him his passport or request his recall. It chose the latter course as more consistent."

America's efforts toward peace occupy considerable space, and one short telegram from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin discloses that the German foreign minister, Von Jagow, "hoped" that Col. Edward M. House, President Wilson's intimate advisor, "would be in Berlin soon."

FOR MILADY'S BOUDOIR ONLY!

The pretty creation above fits in the face of the current custom. It is a pajama costume, that, strange to relate, isn't designed for outdoor or beach wear. It is strictly for the boudoir, and, though this is not suggested, it might even be used as a night costume. The material is softest silk, embroidered in hand-painted flowers, dragons and butterflies.

FIND MILK THIEF

Captured When He Sprang Ankle In Attempted Getaway

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—Franklin Lacey, Jr., 27, faces a Christmas in jail here all because he is a "milk thief" according to his statement to police following his arrest yesterday. For more than a year a "milk thief" has been making life miserable for dairy concerns. Yesterday the milk thief was seen and chased, his capture being effected when he sprang his ankle.

Lacey told police "I like milk as well as most people do their liquor."

He is said to be suffering from tuberculosis and on a milk diet. He will be arraigned today before Mayor W. F. Hurst on a larceny charge.

Girl Who Achieved New Air Record Reveals She Pawned Jewels To Fly

Will Try Another Duration Flight Next Monday, She Says

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEY.
(Copyright 1928, by J. L. K.)
ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Dec. 23—Miss Viola Gentry, attractive 28-year-old aviator, who has suddenly achieved fame by establishing a world's endurance flight record for women by staying aloft over this field 8 hours, 6 minutes and 37 seconds today revealed in an exclusive interview that she pawned her jewels to become a flyer and, now that she has attained a modicum of success, she is "planning bigger things." She has "on her mind" three things which she hopes to accomplish in the order named:
1—Another duration flight, which she will attempt next

Monday, in an effort to smash the record she set last Thursday.
2—Non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles.

VIOLA GENTRY

Admits She Was Known About Roosevelt Field as "The Peet"

3—A transatlantic hop New York to Ostend, Belgium.
I'm not the least bit afraid of trying a long, dangerous flight," Miss Gentry said. "I'm a fatalist. I believe you die when your time comes, and not before."
A trim figure in black leather flying coat and black leather helmet, she stood beside her borrowed Siemens Halakite powered travelair in the hangar here and talked in lively fashion of her career as a flyer. She was born in Gentry, Va., educated in the Bronson private school for girls, Providence, R. I., and learned to fly in San Francisco where she spent most of her girlhood. She is of medium height, blue-eyed, brown-haired and exudes personality by "a smile that won't come off."

Miss Gentry dislikes being termed the "flying cashier" because she worked as a cashier in several New York restaurants to earn expenses incurred while flying. She also was employed by the Roosevelt Field Flying Service.
"I was aviation crazy — and still am," she said. "I've lived it for years. I got a job out here and was so intensely interested I became known as 'the peet.' I was always around the flying machines and the aviators. They couldn't get rid of me. Finally, it got so when I didn't show up at the hangar or at the restaurant the good pilots would ask 'Where's the peet?' I was missed. They all like me now."

"Here they have some of the best pilots in the world. I've been taught many things, such as how to come out of spins and loops. If I hadn't I'd have been killed last Thursday when I spiraled down out of a sky thick with low-hanging clouds and fog from an altitude of 5,000 feet. Low temperature caused moisture to freeze on the wings of the plane."
She laughingly told how, earlier in her career, she went "broke" keeping up with aviation so she pawned all of her personal belongings. "She even sold her Liberty Bonds which had been stowed away 'for a rainy day.'"
"I got $125 for my string of pearls, $250 for a ring, $175 for another ring and less than $100 on other jewelry," she recounted.

"But it was worth it," she praised a friend, Miss Grace Lyon, New York society woman and president of Lyon Airways, whose protegee she has become and who loaned her the Travelair plane to make the endurance flight. Everything was loaned her by friends at the field, the coat she flew in, the special motor and even the gloves she wore. She lauded her instructor, Bob Fowler and William Ulrich, her mechanic. Carl Schneider, the official timer, Harry Booth and the commander of the field, Lieut. H. B. Clarke, who worried so when I was up."

When a fellow is satisfied to take things as they come it means that he is too lazy to go after them.

Practice makes perfect but don't cast reflections just to show how brilliant you are.

THREE GAMES SLATED IN MARION

ROBERT LEE-EAGLE CLASH OUTSTANDING ON WEEK'S PROGRAM

Harding Takes on Tough Opposition in Alumni Team Thursday Night

BY KARL R. McFLOY
Sports Editor, The Star

AFTER a short layoff, basketball will rule supreme in Marion this week with contests being scheduled on three nights.

Headlining the engagements of the week is the battle in which the Eagles will attempt to claw their way through without blackening their record of the year. This contest marks the opening of the week's festivities in Star auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night. The Robert Lee Hawks and the Robert Lee Hawks will furnish the opposition for "Baldy" Compton's quintet of leather heavies.

Made up on the most part from former college stars, the Robert Lee club is rated the best in the state. Last year with practically the same lineup, the Columbus five defeated several teams out of the American basketball league in addition to other prominent aggregations of the country.

Harding.
Harding's quintet, with only one game under its belt, is facing a tough proposition in Star auditorium Thursday night playing former wearers of the Red and Black, conveniently known as the Alumni.

The Alumni tussle is one of Harding's outstanding games each season. This year the graduates are plenty confident of a victory and in some cases are offering two to one odds that they will double the score on this year's Red and Black. However, the writer has been unable to locate any of this money. The Alumni may win but it is hardly probable that they will double the score.

Who's who in the Industrial league will be settled in Friday night's games of the six teams when the O. D. & M. Kappa combination takes on the Osgood five. These two outfits are tied for first place in the league standing after pulling through with victories in their first two starts.

Electric.
LAST week the Electric eliminated the Steam Shovel from the running for the time being while the Osgood five was defeating the Industrial-Excavators. Advance days points to a victory for the Electric although the Osgood may exhibit more strength than has been shown in opening games.

The Steam Shovel should win

RUTH SETS NEW SERIES RECORD

Eight Teams of American League Divided into Three Groups by Foster; New York and Athletics in Top Division; Five Clubs Play Important Part in National Race

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1929 by The Star

FOR the second time in consecutive years, the New York Yankees in 1928 smashed their way through to an American League pennant and a World Series victory in four straight games—and thereby hung up the most remarkable achievement in the history of organized baseball.

The Yankees provided the big baseball sensation of 1928, as they had in 1927. Babe Ruth and his slugging pals were almost the whole show.

In 1927 the Yankees defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in four successive games. In 1928 the New York team committed the same kind of assault and battery on the St. Louis Cardinals—and in the latter case at a time when the Yankees were presumed to have been severely crippled by injuries to star players.

Ruth Hits Up Records

Babe Ruth did not make a new league home run record—his record of 40 homers in 1927 still stands—but in the world series for the second time he hit three home runs in one game and thereby established more individual World Series records than have ever been held by any other player. He finished the series by making a superb one-hand catch close to the boxes of the St. Louis field in the fourth game; and none will forget the look of joy on the Babe's face as he ran toward home plate with the ball clamped in his outstretched hand.

The leader of the St. Louis team was William D. McKeeble, who had formerly been manager of the Pirates but who had been released by Pittsburgh because he seemed to lack the fire and dash thought necessary for a World Series. Oddly enough, McKeeble, after winning the championship of the National League in 1928, was demoted by the St. Louis management and transferred to Rochester, N. Y., because it was said he was lacking in the necessary spirit to guide the St. Louis club in the World Series. That would seem to indicate that some baseball club owners prefer the glory of winning the world series to the over the College-Malleable five while the Hohmann-Excavators are expected to break into the win column with a victory over the Power-Holding.

County high school quintets are not likely to see action on Friday owing to the ban placed on public gatherings by the county health commissioner. This measure was taken to prevent any possible spread of the flu.

glory of winning the championship of a league, although a team may not play in the big series until it has first won the pennant of its own league.

American League Race.
An analysis of the American league race of 1928 develops the fact that the eight teams of the circuit were divided by the results of play into three groups. One of these was made up of the Yankees and the Athletics. The second consisted of a lone club, the St. Louis Browns. The third was composed of the other five clubs in the league, all of which finished far below the three leaders to the race.

In the early part of the season the Yankees entered the field as champions, fairly run away from the remainder of the league. That condition existed until the New York team was more than 17 games in front of all rivals. Then the Yankees began to slacken their pace. Their hardest blow was the loss of Peacock, not only their best left hand pitcher, but one of the best pitchers in the league. With an ailing arm he was forced to retire in August and was unable to pitch in the world series.

Athletics Move Up.
As the New York team was weakened and began to falter, the Philadelphia team began to conquer. The manager of the Athletics made radical changes. He traded a new first baseman, a new third baseman and a new outfielder. Had he made the changes earlier than he did, the Athletics might have won the pennant. The great weakness of that team was against its nearest rivals, the Yankees. The latter won the season's series from the Athletics by such a comfortable margin that they virtually won the championship on that result.

Of the other clubs of the American league, none was so successful as the St. Louis Browns, which finished with some ease. Had the championship year in their effort been anything less than it was, so far as the race between New York and Philadelphia had any bearing upon it, St. Louis might have played a more prominent part. Its line was most sensational and won the approval of St. Louis fans and the commendation of the baseball critics, but it simply could not win a pennant.

National League Race.
The National league was far more successful in 1928 in bringing forth a clean, hard fought race in which five clubs played a primary part and three did some share. Toward the end of the season the Philadelphia and Boston clubs became hopelessly trailing organizations. The Brooklyn club did better than in 1927 but it was not a championship factor at any time.

The Cincinnati Reds, greatly under-rated before the season began, started at a fast pace and at one time were doing so well that their more enthusiastic friends predicted they might win the pennant. That was too sanguine. The Reds suffered a severe loss when Red Lucas, a winning pitcher, was injured and from that time they began to fall back. They finally dropped out of the fight altogether as possible pennant winners and were satisfied to finish fifth.

The race of the league was among the St. Louis, New York, and Chicago clubs, with Pittsburgh making a very strong finish after a very bad start. St. Louis won the pennant because it had the better endurance and perhaps, too, because the New York club faltered when it needed victories most as the season was almost over. To some extent that could be said of the Chicago club, which lacked the heavy driving power needed to win a pennant. The Cubs would start, appear to be dangerously menacing, and then stub their baseball toes. They did that often enough to miss the pennant. There were games which they might have won had they a little more battling power, and this they have sought to find by signing Rogers Hornsby for 1929.

Pirates Get Poor Start.
Pittsburgh began very poorly. The effect of losing to the New York Americans in the 1927 World Series was not their immediate trouble. The Pirates found their pitchers ineffective after a good training season and it was not until the schedule was well under way that they began to get high class pitching. To that was added injuries to players and the ineptness of Wright at short, a failure wholly unexpected. The 1927 champion at length managed to get out of the bog into which they had strayed but it was then too late in the season.

The Giants began to play very consistently as the season entered upon September and it was not until the day before the season actually expired that St. Louis clinched the pennant. The St. Louis team lasted long enough to hold out against their rivals. At one time it seemed possible that the championship might be tied and that, too, on the last day of the schedule, which was on Sunday; but the Giants stumbled with the goal almost in sight and on Sunday St. Louis won at Boston which was enough to clinch the pennant for them.

The hardest blow struck against New York was by Boston, which turned the Giants back in the very last days of August. New York partially overcame that by winning eight games in succession from the Boston team in four double-headers at Boston, but even the odds gained by winning those eight games could not overcome the trouble that Bos-

BRIbery CHARGES HURLED IN BOSTON

Money Request Alleged in Efforts To Permit Sunday Baseball

BOSTON, Dec. 24—Charges of alleged bribery today had entered the city and city council to adopt the Sunday professional sports bill.

Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Boston National league baseball club, in a public statement, declared that a member of the council told officials of the club that they would have to pay a large sum of money, rumored at $50,000, to secure a permit to play Sunday baseball at Braves field. It was said the money was to be split among five men who were to start a drive for Sunday baseball. Another version said the graft charges were started to hurt one man's chances of election as president of the city council. City councilors retorted that the charges by Adams were "hunk," characterized them as "insults" and demanded a complete investigation. Adams replied that the next step was up to the council, that he stood ready to "produce the goods when necessary."

The district attorney immediately announced prompt action would be taken if the charges were officially brought to his attention and that they would be put before the grand jury.

ton had worked previously for New York.

Hornsby led his team gallantly enough at New York but made a poor go of it in Boston, which is rather strange when it is considered that even a tail-end team is most likely to play its best baseball on its own ground.

New York Victories Ink West.
The victory of the New York Americans was popular in New York and not popular outside the city. Had the Giants also won the pennant in the National League and again played with the Yankees in the world series, the general interest in baseball would have suffered in the West. The New York prominence in baseball always has been resented in the west and there has been an impression on the part of baseball enthusiasts of that section that the greater financial resources of New York clubs have enabled them to get together championship teams by abjecting the best players. This is only partially true.

PAULINO IS GIVEN CHANCE TO FIGHT STRIBLING BY TEX

Rickard Pushes Sharkey Out of Heavyweight Title Picture

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Senator Paulino Uscary-Umbay, the lion of the Pyrenees, will assist William Lawrence Stribling in plucking the golden pebble from Miami Beach in February, according to Tex Rickard, who is preparing to leave New York for a month or so in Florida.

Jack Sharkey is definitely out of the picture and cable has been dispatched to Paulino asking him to grab the first steamer back to the United States. The tasking, however, will spend Christmas making faces at Jack Remall's sons in place in Colombia, South America. They are calling it a fight. If Senator Uscary-Umbay does well enough to keep out of jail and Remall keeps us out of war with Colombia, the former will cut out on New York fall in about 10 days. He has caught all the big heavyweights of managers, beat his hairy breast and cry.

"Bring me three Streeling!"

Ulfke Sharkey, who is now accusing Rickard of a deep plot to have him jabbed to make a hero of Stribling, the Basque has no fear of being knocked out of losing a decision. He has caught all the big heavyweights of managers and hasn't faired yet. A little thing like a decision against him bothers Uscary not at all. He keeps on getting good money. The only thing he hates to lose is a dollar.

DETROIT WINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Rough playing by the New York Americans was blamed today for their 2 to 0 defeat by Detroit here last night in a National Hockey league contest. "Tough" Broadbent, New York right wing, drew three two-minute penalties and while he was in the penalty box in the last period the Cougars scored against the weakened Americans. Cooper and Herberts made the scores.

ENTERS RACE GAME

Dempsey Buys Interest in Jockey Club at Tijuana

TIJUANA, MEXICO, Dec. 24—Jack Dempsey is now in the racing game—horses. It was announced today that the former heavyweight champion of the world had bought an interest in the Tijuana jockey club and had become a partner of James W. Coffroth, Baron Long and Gene Normile, the latter once the pugilist's manager.

While this is the former champion's first venture into race track ownership, he is by no means a stranger to the game, having been associated with Johnny Coburn in the ownership of the stables bearing Coburn's name.

Dempsey and Coburn last season entered the Tijuana derby and, incidentally, more than $30,000, with their colt, Dr. Wilson.

SMITH WINS OPEN ON CATALINA LINKS

Shoots 72 Holes of Tricky Course Under Par; Finishes with 245

AVALON, SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, CAL., Dec. 24—Shooting 72 holes over the tricky little whole Avalon course under par, Horton Smith, 21-year-old professional of Joplin, Mo., finished with a grand total of 245 and was the winner today of the first $500 Catalina open golf championship held here.

Smith practically coasted to victory after holding a two stroke lead over the field at the start of the final 18 holes.

However, it took Walter Hagen to furnish the big thrill of the last round. With but nine holes to go, Hagen was but four shots behind the leader. It was then that he started his spectacular attempt to overtake Smith. The "Hag" was even par to the sixth and finished the last three holes with a "blitz" to take second money of $300 and wind up but one stroke behind the winner. Hagen had an aggregate of 246.

Leading scores were:

"I'm ready now and I'll be better by Friday, and I'll bet $10,000 on myself if I can get odds of 2 to 1," quoth Ace today.

Hunkins pointed out that for the first time in a fight here, he will not be under a strain in making the weight.

TAKE 189 GUNMEN IN GOTHAM CLEANUP

Underworld Characters
Found Loitering on Streets
in Roundup

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Hounded by one of the greatest cleanups by police in years, 189 gunmen, muggers, pimps, burglars, narcotic vendors, thieves and beggars were being undermined and questioned in various station houses throughout the city today. All underworld characters found loitering on the streets after midnight were taken into custody.

The prisoners are wanted for crimes ranging all the way from murder to petty larceny. The roundup was the result of a statement of Governor Whelan, new police commissioner, that the department had been lax in investigation of the two drug rings now being probed. So many detectives and policemen have been transferred or demoted that everybody on the force is outdoing himself to make a showing. All persons loitering on the streets who appeared to be at all suspicious were bailed to a police station for questioning.

The water clocks, or Clepsydras, used by the Egyptians, Chinese, Greeks and Romans, were the earliest forms of time-measuring devices constructed by mankind.

Illinois Congressman Opens

WASHINGTON—No busier person can be found anywhere in the national capital than Mrs. Medill McCormick, known politically as Ruth Hanna McCormick. Elected to congress as representative-at-large from Illinois, she already has opened a suite of offices here to take care of the large volume of business pouring in with every mail.

"The people of my state seem to think that now they've elected me they are going to put me to work right away," she explained. "Apparently it doesn't matter that my term of office hasn't yet actually begun. I'm just an added workman they have in Washington—and, I must say, I like it."

She's a Kentucky Colonel. To her other distinctions, Mrs. McCormick recently added the colorful title of "Kentucky Colonel." She has just been made a colonel on the staff of Governor Fleam Sampson of the Blue Grass State, although it was a neighboring state that has sent her to congress.

Mrs. McCormick is considered one of the most "politically minded" women in the country, having from childhood been grounded in the study of politics and government. In the home of her famous father, the late Mark Hanna. And later, as the wife of another senator of distinction, who was able to advance her knowledge many fold.

So that her statement about women in the cabinet is taken to be, if not prophetic, at least indicative of what the best political minds probably think on the subject.

Mrs. McCormick is well known in social circles in the capital, having resided here for protracted periods throughout many years. Her "best friend" probably is Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the speaker of the house.

INDICATE 1929 TO BE PROSPEROUS YEAR

Banker and Economist Cites Important Factors on Future Business

BY W. S. COUSINS
(Copyright, 1929, by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Almost all the important factors bearing on the future course of business indicate that 1929 will be a prosperous year for American trade and industry, said Francis H. Sisson, banker and economist, to International News Service today. This prosperity, Sisson believes will reach down through all the ramifications of industry, manufacturing, home and foreign trade, labor and public investing. Good wages and steady employment will be a factor of the industrial future of the country.

"Three main considerations support these views," said Sisson. "First, that most of the basic conditions underlying the prosperity of the last few years are still operative; second, that in several important directions improvement has taken place in recent months; third, that very few unfavorable influences are now at work, and these are having little apparent effect."

"The only factor that has changed fundamentally during the past year is the level of money rates. Even this change is not so essential as it appears on the surface, since it is due partly to the efforts of banking authorities to control the flow of bank credit into the speculative market. The country's gold reserve is ample to support any probable demand for commercial purposes for some time. The advance in rates that has already taken place has apparently had little effect on the volume of trade of the industrial set city. That it may retard industrial and building expansion as well as affect the investment market is of course possible."

Europe to U. S. in Three Days by Giant Dirigible

Members of Parliament having ten aboard the R-100 at her formal unveiling to the public. Inset, Lieut. George Noville, U. S. N., who will navigate giant air liner on her maiden voyage.

Dream of Ocean Fliers About To Come True with R-100

LONDON—When "Slim" Lindbergh gambled his life on one motor and his luck of missing a plane through the air to get him safely over the Atlantic to Paris he believed that his flight might point the way to the ultimate linking of the New and Old Worlds by regular air lines.

But his most optimistic guess was that it couldn't come before five years. Now, a year and a half later, his dream is actually on the point of realization—in a luxuriously appointed monster of the sky, fitted out with every comfort of an ocean liner.

Huge Bag Undergoing Tests
This amazing airship, now undergoing tests at Hoveon airfield, fills the most imaginative word pictures of the enthusiasts. Her official designation is the R-100; her builder is Commander Richard Burney, formerly of the Royal Navy. An idea of the super air liner may be had from a mere statement of her dimensions:

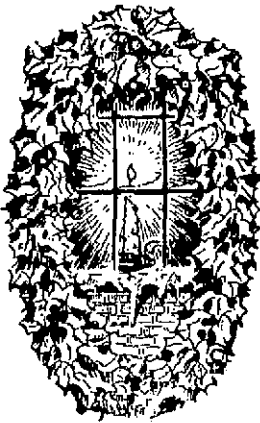

She is 700 feet long, 130 feet high and will easily carry 135 persons, inclusive of crew, in addition to ten tons of mail and freight. Six Rolls-Royce engines will drive her through the air at a cruising speed of 75 miles an hour.

Comfortable, Safe and Speedy
Every detail of comfort, convenience, safety and speed has been attended to in her building, so that Europe may be said already to be only 48 hours away from the Western hemisphere. The R-100's maiden voyage will probably be made early next spring, a tentative timetable for it and other early voyages having been made public as follows:

Egypt, 2 1/2 days; India, 5 to 6 days; Australia, 10 days; Capetown, 6 days; Canada, 8 days.

Navigation of the R-100 across the Atlantic to a mooring mast in Canada is to be in the capable hands of Lieutenant George Noville, U. S. N., also to Commander Richard B. Burney on his transatlantic flight from Roosevelt Field, L. I., to the coast of France.
